Arts Alive SDSU

Arts Alive SDSU is a university initiative dedicated to providing opportunities for students, faculty, and staff at San Diego State University to engage in the arts as an integral part of a comprehensive education that promotes creative research, interdisciplinary collaboration, professional innovation, and personal enrichment on campus and in the community. Our goals are to raise awareness of the vibrant arts programming at SDSU, while increasing attendance at SDSU arts events both on and off campus; to integrate arts activities into a wider range of academic life at SDSU, encouraging the participation of students in all disciplines; to facilitate collaborations among students and faculty in the arts, humanities, and sciences in courses that apply artistic practices as a mode of critical inquiry; and to develop a national profile of SDSU as a progressive educational institution, providing arts-based models of interdisciplinary research, community engagement, and program assessment. ## Research Centers and Institutes

Center for Communication, Health, and the Public Good

Wayne A. Beach, Director

The Center for Communication, Health, and the Public Good is an innovative hub for investigating critical relationships between communication and health that shape the human social condition in contemporary society. Center affiliates conduct basic research generating new discoveries, insights, and knowledge about the fundamental importance of human communication when managing disease, disorders, illness, and wellness. Researchers investigate how communication functions across a wide array of health challenges (e.g., cancer, diabetes, obesity), cultures, settings, and social relationships. The goal is to translate research findings into significant educational resources, such as campaigns, interventions, pedagogy, and other tools for improving communication that enhance quality of life and healthcare.

Center for Hospitality and Tourism Research

Carl Winston, Director

The Center for Hospitality and Tourism Research is an education and research center dedicated to the study and application of professional principles in the broad field of hospitality and tourism. The mission of the center is to enhance the skills and knowledge of professionals and students in the field of hospitality and tourism management through the creation and delivery of initiatives in executive development, research, and curriculum innovation.

Programs associated with the center focus on identifying "best practices" in all aspects of hospitality and tourism such as hotel operations, restaurant operations, global tourism, and events, conventions and attractions management. The center's mission is pursued in multiple venues, including private, public, and not-for-profit agencies. Our vision is to become the leading center for hospitality and tourism management education in Southern California and a prominent national and international resource for questions related to education in hospitality and tourism. The center actively seeks to support SDSU, the College of Professional Studies and Fine Arts, and members of the local and national community in matters related to hospitality and tourism.

Contact the center at 619-594-4964, or visit the website at https://htm.sdsu.edu/about\_us/centers\_and\_institutes/center-for-hospitality-and-tourism-research.

Center for Learning, Instruction, and Performance Technologies

Marcie J. Bober-Michel, Director

The center's faculty and staff conduct research on the design and use of technology-based systems for enhancing human learning and performance, monitor trends in advanced applications of educational technology and allied disciplines, and evaluate the effectiveness and usability of educational products and services.

The center consults with corporations, agencies, and SDSU affiliates on the design of products for education and training, arranges for on-site and electronic delivery of professional development courses and seminars by the nationally recognized faculty of SDSU Learning Design and Technology, and coordinates fieldwork and internship opportunities for advanced graduate students.

Center for Science and Media

A collaboration of the School of Journalism and Media Studies, the College of Professional Studies and Fine Arts, and the College of Sciences, the Center for Science and Media strives to educate the public about science, through the strategic and ethical use of media. The Center offers public lectures, crisis communication training, opportunities for research collaborations, and a writing course for science majors to learn how to communicate science information and scientific findings to lay audiences via the news media.

Center for the Study of Media and Performance (CSMP)

Kurt J. Lindemann, Director

The Center for the Study of Media and Performance (CSMP) is an interdisciplinary forum for critical inquiry into the many expressions of live art and screen culture. The objectives of the center are to make a significant intervention into research practices in the arts, to engage leading thinkers in these and related fields in a national dialogue, and to bridge the divide separating theory and practice. The center welcomes the participation of SDSU faculty, students, and affiliates, as well as the greater San Diego community. For more information, visit <https://communication.sdsu.edu/research/media-and-performance>.

Center for the Study of Women in Television and Film

Martha M. Lauzen, Director

The Center for the Study of Women in Television and Film is the nation's first program dedicated solely to the study and discussion of women's representation on screen and behind the scenes in television and film. The purpose of the center is to (1) engage students, faculty, and individuals working in the industry in an on-going discussion regarding the portrayals of girls and women in television and film and women's employment behind the scenes; (2) heighten the profile of women's representation in television and film as a public policy issue and concern; (3) train the next generation of scholars to analyze media images of women, and; (4) conduct an expanded agenda of original research on women's representation in television and film that has both practical and theoretical import.

Center for Surf Research

Jess Ponting, Director

The Center for Surf Research is the first of its kind in the world. The center responds to the challenges of a rapidly expanding surfing industry and the broadening horizons of surf tourism and its impact on peoples, environments, and economies along the coastlines of more than 100 countries. Housed in the L. Robert Payne School of Hospitality and Tourism Management, the center engages with the surf industry and surf tourism industry to create a cutting edge research agenda; disseminates specialist knowledge to governments, the surf industry, tourism developers, destination communities, non-profits, and tourists; shapes responsible global citizens through life-changing experiential learning opportunities and study abroad programs; and, inspires active stakeholder engagement with the social and economic development of destination communities, the sustainable use of their resources, and the conservation of their critical environments. ### Conrad N. Hilton Foundation Volunteer and Mentorship Center

The Conrad N. Hilton Foundation Volunteer and Mentorship Center is an endowed center that connects hospitality and tourism management (HTM) students to numerous volunteer and mentoring opportunities throughout San Diego.

Housed in the L. Robert Payne School of Hospitality and Tourism Management, the center engages with area high schools to provide learning opportunities for under-served youth. These range from supervised one-on-one mentoring by HTM students to the high school students, to an annual one-day educational conference managed and produced by the center. These programs shape responsible citizens through life-changing experiential teaching and learning opportunities and inspire active engagement with the social and economic development of San Diego. Visit the website at http://htm.sdsu.edu/web/index.php/students/volunteer\_mentorship\_center for more details.

Glen M. Broom Center for Professional Development in Public Relations

Housed in the School of Journalism and Media Studies, the Glen M. Broom Center for Professional Development in Public Relations facilitates professional development of students via internship support, of faculty via research support, and of public relations practitioners via support for their life-long learning. Launched in 2013 in honor of long-time public relations professor Dr. Glen M. Broom, the Center hosts international visiting scholars in public relations, offers training sessions for practitioners preparing for the Accredited in Public Relations examination, and houses the prestigious Journal of Public Relations Research.

Institute for Dialogue and Social Justice

Luke A. Winslow, Director

The Institute for Dialogue and Social Justice deploys the interdisciplinary scholarship and activism of SDSU faculty, students, and community members to enhance productive dialogue about pressing social issues of SDSU and the wider San Diego region. The institute seeks to develop a culture of redressing direct and indirect forms of social and economic injustice and promoting alternative policies, practices, and vocabularies that enhance the potential for all people to live healthy, safe, full, viable, and meaningful lives. Because productive dialogue is crucial for a campus and community marked by pronounced tensions across scholarly (academic/social), political (conservative/liberal), geographic (urban/rural), regional (border issues/US and Mexico), cultural (civilian/military), and material identities (historically privileged/historically oppressed) our institute seeks to promote the positive change needed to address these tensions on the SDSU campus and in surrounding communities and leverage our skills, knowledge, and perspectives to develop a culture defined by the public good. The institute is located in the School of Communication. For more information, visit Communication, Room 244.

Institute for Leisure and Tourism Management

Lawrence A. Beck, Director

The Institute for Leisure and Tourism Management is primarily concerned with conducting leisure-related research, promoting professional development, disseminating specialized publications, and organizing conferences, seminars, lectures, and workshops.

Institute for Meetings and Events

The Institute for Meetings and Events is focused on education and research dedicated to the application of professional principles in meetings and events. The institute was created to enhance education and knowledge of students and professionals in this discipline. The institute has a global orientation and is guided by an international advisory board composed of the profession's most seasoned and successful leaders. The institute offers symposia, forums, and other education programs to stimulate dialog and discussion on key issues and to create new knowledge in this dynamic and emerging discipline. The institute conducts timely and innovative research as well as benchmarking data for best-practices. The institute involves faculty with expertise in disciplines as diverse as project management, business, public relations, graphic design, theatre, and hospitality. Visit https://htm.sdsu.edu/about\_us/centers\_and\_institutes/institute-for-meetings-and-events for more details.

Institute for Innovative Governance

Patricia A. Frosio, Director

The Institute for Innovative Governance, located in the School of Public Affairs, was established to produce applied research solutions for public policy and governance challenges, with a focus on innovative practices. Institute activities include producing research and policy papers supporting data gaps and research needs of local governments and nonprofit agencies and sponsoring conferences and events with government and community leaders. School of Public Affairs students are integrated into the institute's work and equipped with the skills to approach public policy and governance challenges critically to provide efficient and responsive public services.

The Investigative Newsource

Lorie Hearn, Executive Director

Investigative Newsource is housed in the School of Journalism and Media Studies. The institute is an independent, non-profit organization whose mission is twofold: (1) to produce investigative, data-driven journalism that informs the citizens of San Diego and Imperial counties and (2) to help develop the investigative journalists of the future. Through internships and other mentoring opportunities, the institute offers ways to enhance the learning experience of journalism students at San Diego State University. The institute is collaborative, not competitive, and seeks to distribute its work across multiple media platforms – print, broadcast and online – throughout the region. The institute is nonpartisan and does not engage in political advocacy. The website is <http://www.inewsource.org>.

Sycuan Institute on Government Gaming

Katherine A. Spilde, Director

The Sycuan Institute on Government Gaming, in partnership with the Center for Global Gaming Research, is housed in the L. Robert Payne School of Hospitality and Tourism Management. Under the terms of an endowment by the Sycuan Band of the Kumeyaay Nation, the institute has created and introduced an academic curriculum leading to the B.S. in Hospitality and Tourism Management with an emphasis in Tribal Gaming Operations and Management. The institute also produces and funds original academic research related to the legal gambling industry with an emphasis on tribal government gaming. In particular, the institute is dedicated to the development of a professional class of gaming industry experts who understand the unique partnership between host governments and the legal gambling industry. The institute actively engages students, faculty, and industry partners in order to cultivate a professional workforce, develop and document best practices, and share successful gaming innovations. Visit <http://htm.sdsu.edu/web/index.php/centers/sycuan> for details.

The J. Willard and Alice S. Marriott Foundation Student Center for Professional Development

Christina Jeffries, Director

The J. Willard and Alice S. Marriott Foundation Student Center for Professional Development is housed in the School of Hospitality and Tourism Management (HTM). The center provides support for internship programs related to the hospitality industry. It assists HTM students in finding internships and job placement through workshops, focus groups, and continuing conversations with industry leaders. Every HTM student spends two semesters working with the center, and again uses center resources at graduation. This experiential learning builds professional competencies which enhance effectiveness when students enter the workforce. The center serves as a testing ground to determine an individual's competence before hiring as a permanent employee. ### Production Center for Documentary and Drama

Timothy Powell, Director

The Production Center for Documentary and Drama is located in the School of Theatre, Television, and Film and is the professional production arm of the university. The center mentors graduate students in media in the creation of projects that promote their artistic and technical growth, and works with global film schools, film institutes, and filmmakers in the production of its long-running, international TV series, "The Short List," showcasing short films. The center interfaces with local, state, and national entities in the creation of films and television programs in the arts, humanities, and sciences, including distribution on public and cable television. These projects provide senior and graduate students with professional opportunities to work in key capacities, such as writing, directing, camera crew, editing, and production design.
